

Who we are

We are a member of a national group, The Arts Society, and have over 350 members. Membership nationally exceeds 90,000. This gives us access to over 300 professional lecturers and a wide range of subjects from some of the country's top experts.

What we do

Lectures, Special Interest Days and Visits

Our main activity is the 10 lectures per year. We aim to provide entertaining, educational and often amusing talks of the highest quality, delivered by professional lecturers from academic, media and literary backgrounds. These are complemented by special interest days (which allow us to explore a subject in more depth) and visits.

Volunteering and Young Arts Programme

We provide support to the arts and heritage world through our volunteering activities and support individual local projects to encourage young people to engage in community art.

Heritage Volunteers

Our members undertake many projects as volunteers. A group of our volunteers have been involved in book conservation work at the National Maritime Museum for almost 18 years. Previous projects include: research on plant importation into Falmouth in the 18th/19th Centuries, production of a visitors' guide to a local churchyard, a national project researching plays written and performed during WW1, cataloguing the costumes held by Helston Museum and helping to recover information on the old Jewish Cemetery in Falmouth.

Church Recorders

Nationally over 1500 places of worship of all religions have had their fabric and content catalogued, with records of their rich artistic heritage now held in local and national archives for future generations. Our volunteers have completed five records: St Mawnan, St Constantine, St Laudus Mabe, King Charles the Martyr and St Budock. Our current recording project is at St Mylor Church.
